FIFTEEN PLANS

Under Consideration By Tobacco Growers But Nothing Definite As Yet Agreed Upon.

Frankfort, Ky., January 26.—Because of the inability of committees to perfect a plan of organization, the stage of incorporating the movement launched at Lexington was not reached at the meeting of growers here today.

At 3 o'clock the committee on organization still was in session; also the committee on resolutions, while the convention is being entertained with speech making.

It is understood that there are about 15 plans under consideration by the committees and it may be a week or longer before they are able to sift these to one plan to be recommended to the growers.

HISTORIC ARMSTRONG RESIDENCE BURNED AT AUGUSTA.

The home of C. Hunter was destroyed by fire last Sunday night at Augusta, the blaze originating from a crossed wire. The building was of brick and was known as the old Armstrong home, being one of the old-fashioned homes of the city. The loss is estimated at $3,500, partially covered by insurance. During the battle of Augusta in 1863, when General Basil Duke's brigade of "Morgan's Men" stormed and captured the town after a bloody resistance from the Union forces, a daughter of James Armstrong had the piano carried out of the burning home and in the yard played southern airs while the battle was raging.

Several cases of scarlet fever are reported at Flemingsburg.

CONDITION OF THE SICK.

Mr. Omar Dodson is confined to his home in East Third street with a severe cold.

This morning Dr. Edwin Mathews reported that his little son Mitchell was about holding his own, but that he is still critically ill with typhoid fever. Hayswood Hospital reports Mr. C. L. Rosenham as continuing to improve.

Mr. R. R. Owens, who has been very ill from a violent attack of hicoughs, is better this morning, and has had no recurrence of his trouble since yesterday.

SETTLEMENT CLUB TO GIVE TEA.

At its meeting Monday afternoon the Settlement Club decided on another tea, which, if as successful as the one given earlier in the season, will not only enable the club to pay off the balance of its debt, but will give no small amount of pleasure to those who attend. The admission, 10 cents, is so small that no one will feel greatly taxed and the refreshments, music and entertainment will be of a variety to make the patrons feel well repaid for attending. Don't forget the date—Wednesday, February 3.

FLEMINGSBURG ITEMS.

(Fleming Gazette.)

Miss Mildred Raines of Maysville came up Friday to be the guest of Miss Julia Jenkins.

William Breeze went to Augusta Friday to look after his picture show interests there, his brother still being laid up in Maysville from injuries he received when the auto truck turned over. His family went with him for a visit in Maysville.

EXTRA SESSION.

Washington, January 26.—Senator James of Kentucky says that if an extra session of Congress is called there will be no intermission between the old and new session, but that the new one will begin March 5.

A total of more than 12,000 books of all kinds was published in the United States in 1913.

FOOD SUPPLY

CONFISCATED BY GERMANY. KAISER DECLARES GREAT BRITAIN IS TRYING TO STARVE OUT THE FATHERLAND.

Fierce Fighting In Alsace Continues—More Ships Sunk.

London, January 26.—Sweeping regulations were issued today for the conservation of the food supply of Germany.

This includes the confiscation of the entire grain crop and is regarded in London as the most significant item of news received today from the countries at war.

All stocks of wheat have been seized by the German government, according to an official statement, in order to safeguard the bread supply until the next harvest. This measure, it is said, was made necessary by the fact that the people have failed to economize.

The stocks will be distributed according to the population of the various communities.

Berlin announced officially that this act cuts deeper into the economic life of the German people than any other measure adopted since the outbreak of hostilities, and the government defends the regulation on the ground that in order to upset the plans of German's enemies to starve the empire it is necessary to make certain a regular supply of foodstuffs until the next harvest.

Germans Suffer Frightful Losses.

Paris, January 26.—Frightful German losses in an attack on strong English positions west of La Bassee and in the region from Lys to the Oise were reported in official dispatches today. These brought indications that the Germans are attempting to resume the offensive from the sea coast south to Arras.

Fierce fighting in Alsace continues. The Germans are bombarding Sarre, Lennheim and Lenbach.

Germans Sink Eleven Ships.

Berlin, January 26.—It is reported from Leipzig that the German cruiser Karlsruhe has sunk eleven commercial ships during the last fortnight.

British Lose Cruiser.

London, January 26.—It was officially announced at the admiralty today that the big British armored cruiser Viknor had been lost off Ireland with all hands. The vessel struck a mine, it is believed.

LONG DISTANCE

Wizard Bell Performs Another Wonder—Talks Across the Continent.

New York, January 26.—The newest marvel of the telephone was wrought yesterday when the newly completed transcontinental wire connecting New York with San Francisco carried the voices of speakers distinctly the 3,600 miles from coast to coast.

Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone, and his associate, Thomas A. Watson, the first men ever to speak and hear over a telephone, and who were at the two ends of the wire in 1876 when Bell first called "Ahoy," were again yesterday the central figures in the achievement. Later President Wilson in Washington and Theodore N. Vail at Jekyll Island, near Georgia, participated in the conversation and spoke to President Moore of the Panama-Pacific Exposition in San Francisco.

Mr. Vail's inclusion in the transcontinental communication linked another 1,000 miles to the 3,600 and made that connection the longest in history. Mr. Vail is spending the winter at Jekyll Island and it was necessary to convey his voice by wire, from that point to New York, a distance of approximately 1,000 miles, before it started on the trip across the continent.

Dr. Bell was in the New York offices of Mr. Vail, surrounded by Mayor Mitchell and parties of city and telephone officials when the connection was made and Mr. Watson held the receiver in San Francisco.

The President said that he could hear Mr. Moore in San Francisco very distinctly.

The transcontinental service will not be established for public use until about March 1. It will cost $20.70 for a person in New York to talk for three minutes with San Francisco, and $6.75 for each additional minute.

Practical Underwear

Practical in the dependable quality of fabrics, in the cut that assures comfort without sacrifice of correct lines, in the careful sewing and in the moderate prices. No wonder women are unbounded in their enthusiasm over the unapproachable values of this sale.

The details of each garment are planned for satisfactory wear—no buttonholes ready to ravel or raw edges ready to tear. Measurements cut for a trim but easy fit, which means plenty of freedom at neck and shoulders with tailored precision at waist and hips. And prices are all within the scope of women who want plenty of undermuslins without a great expenditure of money.

FOR SEWING WEEK

Many women shut in by the inclement weather of January, devote the time to sewing for early spring needs. No doubt they will be interested in the following:

10c and 12½ val insertions 3¼ yard.
35c Nainsook Edgings, 4 to 6 inches wide, 25c. The 25c quality 19c and 15c—and in this lot a piece of Baby Irish is included. A good pattern assortment in Nainsook insertions ¼ to 1 inch wide 15c, formerly 25c. The 20c quality 10c. Also about two dozen pieces of one inch Nainsook edges reduced from 10c to 5c. These embroideries were used in window decoration and are slightly soiled.

Embroidered lingerie bands 5c for a six yard bolt. White or sand embroidered in pink, blue, red, brown, helio or black. Pretty trimming for women's or children's tub frocks.

Two exquisite pieces of Swiss all-over inset with Baby Irish. The material is slightly soiled, so the price falls from $2½ to $1½. Colored nets, short lengths, green, red, gray, blue, 10c yard.

CHILDREN AND THE MOVIES.

The request made by a committee of Cincinnati women that proprietors of motion picture theaters in residence districts provide weekly or bi-weekly matinees especially for children, and that films particularly adapted to little folk be provided, was an entirely sensible request. This the house managers admitted.

The unfortunate factor in the matter is, however, that all of the film producers combined do not produce a sufficient number of children's films to last more than a couple of weeks. Local managers are simply unable to get these films, as eager as they may be to do so.

The production of motion picture reels is a business which has become highly commercialized. Sentiment plays but a small part in it. Producers are not paying much attention to the amount of social good they do or undo. And as children's films have not produced quick profits, no one, seemingly, has taken the trouble to enter this branch of the business as a specialty and develop it.

It is admitted by many observers that the "movies" are exerting a tremendous influence over the youth of the country. This influence begins very early. An dit stands to reason that if children are shown nothing but stories of domestic infidelity, crime and fast living, that they will only too soon develop an unhealthy understanding of life. A very considerable responsibility rests upon the makers of films, and one to which they should be held to account. There should be plenty of films for children, of a sane and healthy kind.—Times-Star.

WHO WILL DO DIRTY WORK?

At present with several millions idle in the United States, it is not difficult to find men to do almost any kind of work, but far-seeing employers are not unmindful that with the return of prosperity and with a labor shortage in Europe probable as one result of the war, there is very likely to be a serious labor shortage in this country. Hence the question arises: How will men be obtained to do disagreeable work? In a recent paper, read before the Cleveland Engineering Society, Thomas D. West called attention to the strong dislike of Americans for anything that begrimes and calouses. Mr. West believes that to meet this situation it will be necessary to have a very much higher wage rate and shorter hours for common labor, while those who prefer clean, easy and comfortable work with few responsibilities ought not to have their compensation increased. This is a suggestion well worthy of consideration. The dirty work must be done, and Americans may find it increasingly difficult to depend upon immigrants to do it.—Iron Trade Review.

THE DAILY NOVELETTE.

Robinson's Revenge.

Once Rob was left on an island,
Which wasn't what he did like.
He found his poor old "Friday,"
But would rather have found a "bike."

The garkle trees dipped their long fronds gently toward the ocean on the east shore of Robinson Crusoe's island, and, underneath, with a net, Robinson himself sculled scoopingly.

Finally, with a glad, hungry whoop, he caught one. "Ray!" he cried. "I thought I wasn't going to eat today!"

And, slinging the seacker over his shoulder, he made his way to his hut, through the dense wattle weeds.

As he arrived his man Friday was rolling a poison ivy cigarette.

"Set the table while I fry this seacker," ordered Robinson Crusoe. "Say, what have you been doing, breaking up housekeeping?"

Broken scraps of china were scattered about the floor, and the hut was a sight.

"I'm sorry, boss," trembled Friday. "Twarn't my fault, boss, but a big six-horned gallywax done come a gallumping in heah while you was away, boss, and I elum a saddle tree and the critter clean busted the pantry up, and there ain't a plate left."—Louisville Times.

SCHOOL TEACHING EXHAUSTING WORK

Miss Rosa M. Keller's Struggle to Keep Up—How Vinol Helped to Ward Off Nervous Breakdown.

Alburtis, Pa. — "I am a teacher in the public schools and I got into a very nervous, run-down condition. I could not sleep and had no appetite. I was tired all the time."

"My sister told me how Vinol had built up her nephew and asked me to try it. I did so, and within a week after taking Vinol my appetite improved and I could sleep all right and now I feel well and strong."

"Vinol is certainly a fine medicine and even the doctors say it is a good tonic."—ROSA M. KELLER, Alburtis, Pa.

The reason Vinol restored Miss Keller to her normal health was because in a natural manner it sharpened her appetite, aided digestion, strengthened her nerves, and as a result brought the refreshing sleep she needed.

If there is anyone in this vicinity, run-down, weak, nervous, worn out and who cannot sleep, we ask you to try Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic, on our guarantee to build you up and make you feel better, eat better, sleep better, or return your money.

FAILURE—SUCCESS.

The most successful men are not necessarily those who noisily attract public attention. The best and most useful women are not the bright but, terfies of fashion whose press agents incessantly flaunt their pictures and their little nothings before the public. No! No!

The unlauded men and women who are quietly attending to their own little tasks, every day contributing something substantial to industry, prosperity and human progress, rearing children in habits of honest labor and right living, and supplying example that elevates the moral and intellectual level of their little communities—these are the men and women of real influence and power. Success is theirs in the fullest measure.

The power of the locomotive lies not in the tremendously noisy puffing smoke stack, or in the shrill scream of the waste at the safety valve, but in the unheard, unseen, but silent working steam in the cylinder. Just so, the men we call great because they seem to perform marvels, are but the expression of the thought and impulse of the mass of unknown common people. No great man ever yet sprang up except from a great people.

It is not given us all to have success as gorgeous as the rainbow, but no matter. Success consists in doing one's best. Indeed, the real success is more in the trying than in the achievement. Who can estimate what the world owes to those who, according to the ordinary standards of success, are failures? Who can compute the debt of civilization to the obscure men and women who in their efforts to make the world a little brighter, a little better, have been too busy to make money or to achieve fame?

GROWTH OF THE KENTUCKY DIOCESE.

At the celebration of the tenth anniversary of the consecration of Bishop Charles E. Woodcock of the Kentucky diocese, at Louisville Sunday, the bishop made the following report:

The clergy has increased from 24 to 31, and the parishes from 16 to 21. There are now 57 parishes, missions and mission stations, and 39 church buildings, of which 13 are new. Rectories, which numbered 12 10 years ago, now total 17. Eight new parish houses have been built.

Bishop Woodcock has confirmed 3,071 and his communicants have increased from 4,379 to 6,131, or 39 1/2 per cent. Church property has been increased in valuation from $661,700 to $949,178. There have been 25 ordinations. In the last 10 years the Girls' Friendly Inn, on Gray street, has been established, and Bishop Woodcock regards its establishment and occupation one of the greatest achievements during his ministry.

HULL HOUSE RIOTERS TO BE TRIED.

Chicago, January 27.—More than a score of men and women, headed by Mrs. Lucy Parsons, widow of Albert Parsons, one of the Haymarket anarchists who was hanged, will appear in the municipal court tomorrow to answer to charges of riot, unlawful assemblage and marching without a permit. The charges are the outgrowth of the disorderly demonstrations that occurred on January 17, when a meeting of the unemployed held at Hull House was broken up by the police. The authorities allege that the rioting was fomented by agitators of the Industrial Workers of the World.

FASTEST AMERICAN LINER SAILS.

Philadelphia, January 27.—With a passenger list that included scores of notables, the new steamship Great Northern, of the Northern Pacific Steamship Company, departed from Philadelphia today on her maiden trip to San Francisco by way of the Panama canal. Among the passengers booked on the big ship were Norman E. Mack, the Buffalo newspaper publisher; John Ringling, the circus man; John S. Pillsbury, the Minneapolis flour manufacturer; H. H. Tammien, the Denver publisher, and A. W. Dingwall, the New York theatrical manager.

The steamship Great Northern is the fastest merchant liner afloat under the American flag. She will also be the biggest as well as the first passenger liner to pass through the Panama canal.

The vessel has five decks devoted to the accommodation of 500 first-class passengers, including the suites with private baths and luxurious single rooms. The drawing and smoking rooms and library are fitted up on the most recent lines, and there are ample long promenade decks on either side of the ship suitable for fine or wet weather.

THE EMPLOYMENT OF GRENADES

London, January 27.—The frequent mention of the use of hand-grenades in the news from the front has somewhat puzzled the reading public, which was of the opinion that the employment of grenades in field operations was a method of warfare that had been abandoned many years ago. For siege warfare, of course, the use of hand-grenades has never been abandoned, and at Port Arthur the Russians and Japanese expended thousands of these missiles, mostly improvised.

Some of those now being used so extensively by the Germans are of "sealed pattern" made in an arsenal probably before the war while others have been manufactured in the field.

COADJUTOR BISHOP FOR DETROIT

Detroit, Mich., January 27.—The Catholic bishops of the province of Cincinnati, which embraces the states of Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee and the lower peninsula of Michigan, met in conference here today to take up the matter of selecting a coadjutor bishop for the diocese of Detroit. The action is considered necessary in view of the advanced age and infirmities of Bishop Foley, who is in his eighty-second year.

ADDRESS OF MRS. CORA WILSON STEWART

President of Kentucky Illiteracy Commission, Before the Kentucky Press Association at Its Midwinter Meeting December 29th, 1914—How Kentucky Is Overcoming Illiteracy

The campaign against illiteracy in Kentucky has gathered momentum faster than even its most zealous and ambitious promoters had dared to hope. Within one year after it started in Rowan county, it embraced eight other counties; in the year 1913 it had extended to 25 counties and during the year just closing, since the work has come under state authority and has had the championship of the press of the entire state and the support of other strong and active influences, it has extended its lines to 60 counties, half the counties in the state, and in these is waging a fierce and unrelenting warfare against the foe, illiteracy. The brave and noble teachers and the faithful and valiant editors have fought side by side this year, as it were; the teachers giving time, strength, talent, energy, in unceasing effort and unremitting toil, attacking illiteracy afresh at night after a continuous battle all day, and vanquishing it in an attack in the homes of illiterates when failing to allure the timid, the obstinate, or the misguided victims of this awful curse to the school; the editors wielding the pen, even when worn and weary, searching the columns of other newspapers diligently for every item to copy that would encourage the workers and strengthen the cause, giving space to the illiteracy campaign for which advertisers had bid and which sometimes could be ill spared, chronicling the establishment of each moonlight school, featuring every progressive teacher and heralding each heroic deed that others might be inspired to be progressive and heroic too; disseminating information, silencing criticism, removing or neutralizing opposition, inspiring the courageous to deeds of greater valor, shaming the indifferent into interest and action, recruiting the ranks of the faithful and even drafting the cowardly and the unwilling into service.

Others besides the teachers and the editors of the state have given wholehearted support and rendered valuable service in the illiteracy campaign. Governor McCreary in recommending to the Legislature the creation of the illiteracy commission and in appointing as members of that commission only men and women whose hearts were devoted to the cause and in issuing the first proclamation ever issued against adult illiteracy, and in every other way, in fact, that an executive and patriot could usefully serve, has lent his untiring efforts to this cause. His proclamation caused many recruits to enlist and was a proclamation which enthused educators all over the nation and afforded them an example which the Governors of other states will be proud to imitate.

Hon. Champ Clark, Senator Ollie M. James, Senator J. N. Camden, Congressmen Fields, Cantrell, Langley, Thomas and other members of the Kentucky delegation in Congress have stimulated the teachers by the offer of generous prizes and have demonstrated their loyalty to the best interests of the state.

No mention of the campaign would be complete without taking into account the faithful efforts of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs from time to time, and particularly the campaign waged by that organization last spring with Mrs. Richard P. Lacey, its president; Mrs. Helen Bruce, Miss Hazel Cornell and Mrs. Charles P. Weaver, as leading spirits, in raising a large fund to send the pioneer moonlight school teachers on a tour of northern cities in the United States and in the Dominion of Canada.

Most notable and valuable service was rendered in the recent brilliantly conducted campaign inaugurated by the Kentucky Society of Colonial Dames, with Mrs. Gilmer Adams at the head, a campaign which included all women under the name of the Woman's Forward Movement, and which had as its aim the raising of $20,000 for the Kentucky Illiteracy Commission, to enable the commission to do its work more effectively and to properly equip the moonlight schools.

Other campaigns of a similar nature and likewise far reaching in effect are planned, as was announced at the last meeting of the Kentucky Press Association, and will be launched under the direction of the Kentucky Illiteracy Commission soon, but while it is planned to have other forces at times to strike a swift and strong blow with such mighty force as to dislodge the defenses of the enemy, none fail to recognize the fact that, after all, it is the volunteer teacher who must actually face and conquer the foe and the volunteer editor who must keep on the firing line, and that these two must war continually, showing no quarter, permitting no cessation of hostilities, declaring not a single truce nor agreeing to a single armistice.

All true and patriotic citizens will support, will aid, advise and abet this army, but none can take the places of these two forces in this fight—the editor and the teacher, both leaders and builders in their communities.

We are overcoming adult illiteracy in Kentucky chiefly by means of the institution originated for that purpose—the moonlight school; and the district which has the largest and most successful moonlight school is overcoming it with the most ease and rapidity, while the county which has the largest number of moonlight schools is stamping out illiteracy most speedily. In such schools illiterates in large numbers, as well as semi-illiterates and educated persons, can be gathered together. Where they can be taught in six or seven evenings to read simple pages and to write legible letters, and in a few weeks' time they can acquire more knowledge of these branches and can acquire the fundamental principles of arithmetic, the essential facts in history, geography and other branches as well. The moonlight school undoubtedly affords the most effective plan for combating adult illiteracy. That we are overcoming illiteracy through the moonlight schools is the sworn testimony of hundreds of volunteer teachers in their reports and the written testimony of thousands of men and women redeemed from illiteracy. These letters from redeemed illiterates, which are flooding every mail, tell their own story of their efforts, their joy and their gratitude for their emancipation. Some deplore their lack of previous opportunity, declare their appreciation of the new institution—the moonlight school—and express their hope in it for their further development and all indicate their desire that others everywhere may enjoy the privileges which they have so enjoyed. They usually close with a pledge to stand forever for education and to advance it and themselves at every opportunity. I have hundreds of such letters here with me, all legible, from men and women known to some of you, all testifying to the value of the belated opportunity as earnestly as the saints testify to the joy of salvation.

In addition to eradicating illiteracy entirely from many districts this year, a community interest has been aroused, education has been popularized, illiteracy has been stigmatized, a new spirit of progress, built upon a substantial foundation, has developed in isolated communities and stagnated communities and all sorts of communities where moonlight schools have been established and properly organized.

Many persons have been reached by individual instruction, making a beginning under the direction of the teacher at home, and some have been made more thorough after the session closed by continuing under the instruction of the teacher privately. Many former teachers have enlisted to instruct one privately, several lawyers have volunteered to teach illiterate clients, a few women have volunteered to teach in their homes, and school children in some cases have enlisted to teach one or more. So gradually we are securing and will secure from these ranks and others a force for picket duty.

In several jails in the state classes of illiterates are being taught, and this work is to be extended to all the jails. The reformatory at Frankfort has passed a resolution that none shall leave its walls illiterate and instruction is now being provided for all illiterate inmates. A beginning has been made in some of the mining camps in the state, and the mining districts have been invaded.

The Federation of Women's Clubs will start on their new campaign in January which will include the teaching of providing of instruction for any illiterate employed in the household of any member of the Federation, and some other plans of equal merit and of equal interest.

The Traveling Men's Campaign soon to begin is in process of organization, will include the carrying of such stickers on the salesmen's grips and trunks as these: "No Illiteracy in Kentucky After 1920." "Everybody Reads and Writes in Kentucky—In 1920." These traveling salesmen will be asked to carry to each country and small town emblem the message for his illiterate customers, that illiteracy is an evil and a disgrace to exist anywhere; that it is a yoke which can be thrown off in a week or two by such as earnestly seek instruction, that adults learn with unusual ease and rapidity and that none are too old since "Uncle John" Hatfield learned in a moonlight school at the age of 94, and a Hardin county woman has begun her education at the age of 95. The traveling men's campaign will include a stock of stories such as drummers' flight to tell, illustrating the handicap, the crime and disgrace of illiteracy.

illiteracy.

The speakers' campaign soon to be launched next by the Kentucky Illiteracy Commission is one in which 120 of the statesmen, educators and talented orators, men and women of the state, will join in a campaign of oratory against illiteracy.

There are, perhaps, but two dangers to the campaign against illiteracy in so far as its interests lie in the support of the press. The one is that the press may grow inert before the task is accomplished, and the other that it may dilute or weaken its efforts by adding too many other features and other phases of the same subject. There are persons who would overshadow or minimize this movement by attaching to it confusing with it sundry and diverse of other things pertaining to school work, who would belittle it by assuming it an incident to something else or by recognizing it only a means to some other long desired and unrealized end. It is incident to nothing, but is a scheme and plan and effort all in itself. It is a means to no end, only the one for which it was designed—the eradication of adult illiteracy.

The moonlight school is for the education of adults. The illiteracy campaign is for the purpose of emancipating illiterates, to give them their freedom and power, to fill their barren lives with hope and joy and beauty and usefulness. It is to afford them an opportunity at whatever age they choose to seek it, and if they do not choose to seek it at all, to induce or persuade or allure them. It is to convert the waste material in citizenship into intelligent, useful, usable material. It is to educate, not 10 or 20 years hence, but immediately, for better homes, better habits, better roads, better business. It is for the purpose of placing a pen in every hand, to give expressions to thoughts long repressed, and to place a newspaper and good books in every home, to give the inmates new ideals, and a broader conception of life. The 208,084 men and women who have eyes to see and see not and have hands to write but write not, and perhaps 208,084 more who read but poorly and write but laboriously, are to be the immediate beneficiaries of this movement, but if in the end, as after effects, it should bring the antagonistic and the indifferent into sympathetic and intelligent co-operation with the school, should increase the attendance and promote regularity of attendance, should create demands for more efficient schools and a stronger compulsory school law, should make illiteracy appear a calamity when unavoidable and a disgrace when intentionally endured and should make for such conditions educationally as would render illiteracy in large degree impossible in future this year, we shall be gratified, intensely gratified, and grateful that it has served other end so well while serving its own.

I desire to commend the far seeing wisdom of this body of Kentucky editors in adopting as their own to promote the two great constructive movements which today are agitating the public mind and which undoubtedly are destined to revolutionize the state—the eradication of illiteracy and the building of good roads. Both were adopted by this organization while they were yet in the pioneer stage and I trust that you view the results attained this year in both campaigns with a sense of pride and proprietorship so just and natural in those who have so successfully and splendidly promoted a good cause.

When the members of the Kentucky Press Association pledged themselves in their annual meeting at Dawson Springs on the tenth of June, 1914, to promote the campaign which had been inaugurated against illiteracy in the state, I felt a sense of security as to its welfare and an invincible hope for its ultimate success which I had never known before. How splendidly you have adhered to that policy and how zealously you have advocated that cause needs no examination of the files of the newspapers in your offices to determine, although such examination would reveal an unparalleled example of devotion, proof of pens forcibly, frequently and faithfully wielded, columns unstintingly used, the best in display and headline and all that goes to give prominence and effectiveness to an article known to the newspaper craft contributed, and in fact, all else that could have been done to prove your deep and abiding interest. But the best test of any scheme or effort is its results. In the tremendous public sentiment created in the spirit of co-operation aroused, the recruits enlisted and the forces set in motion, the Kentucky press may justly view with pride the achievements for which in a large measure they are responsible. I congratulate you one and all upon your efforts and your success. I esteem it an honor to be an editor and to be a member of this body more than I can express. For your support of the cause of emancipating men and women from illiteracy I can not thank you sufficiently, and with propriety can not thank you at all, for the cause is yours and the state is your field for development. Both as editors and patriots you owe it to yourselves and to the state to lend your most enthusiastic efforts until the battle is fought and won. Yet, I am sincerely gratified at your remarkable zeal and earnestness; I love you for your loyalty and I honor you for your patriotism and I am deeply grateful to you one and all for the hundreds of personal kindnesses and honors which you have so lavishly bestowed upon me.

GERMANS HONOR KAISER'S BIRTHDAY.

Amsterdam, January 27.—A dispatch from Berlin says: Never did the German people give more striking testimony of their loyalty to the Fatherland and their love for the Emperor than they did today, on the occasion of the celebration in honor of Emperor William's fifty-sixth birthday anniversary. It had been requested previously in a notice issued by the Prussian ministry of state that the greater festivities in celebration of the Emperor's birthday be omitted, "in view of the seriousness of the times." In accordance with this notice the usual court festivities which in the past have been attended by royal and princely persons from all parts of the empire, were omitted from the program. But the popular festivities, those indulged in by the general public, were carried out with an almost unprecedented display of enthusiasm. The churches of all creeds throughout the empire were thronged at the special religious services in honor of the day. The cities were bright with flags and in the windows of almost every household were displayed pictures of the Emperor and other members of the royal family. All the newspapers of Berlin today devoted leading articles to the anniversary of the birth of the Emperor, and published retrospects of his reign and flattering comments on his conduct of the war.

GETTING ACQUAINTED.

Don't go near the horse, dear; he doesn't know you. My name is Ethel Harper, hortley.

She was young and she was pretty—
At her cooking club, divine—
She was learned, she was witty,
Ah! she was so young and pretty!
But no husband in the city,
On her dishes cared to dine.
Yet, she was so young and pretty—
At her cooking club, divine.

A DAILY LESSON IN HISTORY

One Hundred Years Ago Today.

1815—The army of General Lambert, who had succeeded General Packenham in command of the British expedition against New Orleans, was re-embarked and took its departure for the west Indies. Of the original 6,666 troops, 2,000 had been lost in the futile attempt to take the southern city.

Seventy-five Years Ago Today.

1840—Commodore Isaac Chauncey, a distinguished naval officer of the war of 1812, died in Washington, D. C. Born at Black Rock, Conn., February 20, 1772.

Fifty Years Ago Today.

1865—The short war between Peru and Spain was ended with the signing of a treaty of peace by General Vivanco on the part of Peru, and by Vice Admiral Pareja on the part of Spain.

TWO WOMEN AVOID OPERATIONS

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Chicago, Ill.—"I must thank you with all my heart for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I used to go to my doctor for pills and remedies and they did not help me. I had headaches and could not eat, and the doctor claimed I had female trouble and must have an operation. I read in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I have taken it and feel fine. A lady said one day, 'Oh, I feel so tired all the time and have headache,' I said, 'Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound,' and she did and feels fine now."—Mrs. M. R. KARSCHNICK, 1438 N. Paulina Street, Chicago, Illinois.

The Other Case.
Dayton, Ohio.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound relieved me of pains in my side that I had for years and which doctors' medicines failed to relieve. It has certainly saved me from an operation. I will be glad to assist you by a personal letter to any woman in the same condition."—Mrs. J. W. SHERER, 126 Cass St., Dayton, Ohio.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

AEROPLANES TO CARRY LIQUOR.

Wheeling, W. Va., January 26.—As the aeroplane has not yet been added to the list recognized by the law as common carriers, a company at Dillonvale, O., it is reported, will deliver liquor to this city by means of aircraft. The company's business in this city, it is claimed, is sufficiently large to warrant such a novel plan. Another company will establish an auto truck line between Wheeling and Bridgeport, O., which recently voted wet.

LENIENCY IN WAR TAX PENALTIES.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue at Washington, while opposed to legislation remitting penalties against those who paid the war tax on time, has sent special instructions to the collectors throughout the United States not to collect the fine from firms that made a bona fide attempt to secure stamps and only failed to pay on time because of the fact that stamps were unobtainable.

GROWTH OF THE TELEPHONE.

In the early '70s there was one telephone with about 10 feet of wire. At present there are in this country 9,000,000 telephones and 21,000,000 miles of wire. The telephone pioneers who talked about universal service and a line across the continent were received with derision.

Many opinions are being advanced in the way of lessons to teach the tobacco growers how to manage to get a better price for their tobacco. Methinks, since they lost the opportunity worked into their hands under the reign of Lebus, their goose is gone. With practically all of the manufacturers organized into one body with nothing to hinder them from setting the price as they chose, all the organizing we can do can not affect their sweet will. They know they will get the tobacco if it takes all the year to do it. There is no other way to dispose of it. The only remedy now is for the Federal court to break up the combine and have each factory to buy independently, as their needs demand. Then as they come together to buy a certain class of tobacco, the one that wants it most will give the most for it. Then will come in line the legitimate function of supply and demand. Then, and not until then, can we regulate the crop to advantage.

SOARING

is the price of wheat and flour, but TRAXEL'S BREAD still remains at the same old staple price of 5 cents. You can always depend on TRAXEL'S looking out for his patrons and providing for them, for he bought heavily when prices were down on flour and of a consequence, you reap the benefit. It is not necessary for us to tell you of the quality of our bread, for you already know of its excellence.

NOT ACCORDING TO SHAKESPEARE.

The seven ages of man have been well tabulated by somebody or other on an acquisitive basis. Thus:

First age—See the earth.
Second age—Wants it.
Third age—Hustles to get it.
Fourth age—Decides to be satisfied with only about half of it.
Fifth age—Becomes still more moderate.
Sixth age—Now content to possess a six-by-two strip of it.
Seventh age—Gets the strip.
